

How to Contribute a TAMITag

Tagging is the attachment of keywords or other descriptive information to an online item, such as a webpage or a picture. Another way to think about it is as adding personalized labels. Adding these tags or labels makes the information searchable on the terms in the tags.

Tagging at TAMI means identifying people and things in our videos, telling us when or where something happened, or even sharing anecdotes about the events taking place. TAMI tags link your knowledge to an exact place within a video. Clicking a link in the window to the right of the video will cue up the video to the “tagged” item.

When you see something you want to tag, follow the steps below.

When the video is at the point you wish to annotate:

1. Click the Begin button
2. When the segment you want to mark is finished, click the End button.
3. Click the blue TAMI Tagging link
4. In the resulting box, type in the information about the video clip.
5. Click on the Tag button. In a second or two, you should see a dialog box confirming that your tag was received. Note, the tag will not appear instantaneously, but check back in a day or two and it should be online.

Texas Rangers, Company B Headquarters, 1957

Layout: [Icons]

00:20 / 02:32

Mark Video Segment: begin 00:00:21 [Icons] end 00:00:22 [Icons] play

See someone or something you recognize? TAMI Tagging

Click begin and end to mark the segment you wish to tag. Then enter your comment and click on Tag!

To: tमितags@texasarchive.org

The man on the far right is Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., Chief of the Texas Rangers and first Assistant Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Tag

& Share Mail Video Segment Copy Bookmark more...

Tags come to us anonymously, so if you wish to hear back from us, please send the information in an email to tमितags@texasarchive.org.

Using these steps, you can also send an email to anyone you want to see the video, or share it via social media platforms including Digg, Delicious, Facebook and Twitter! Just click on the word "more..." for those options.